

EVENING WORLD XMAS HOST OF 1,000 NEW YORK FAMILIES.

his Means that at Least
6,000 Hungry Persons
Will Be Feasted.

One thousand families in New York City will be made happy on the last Christmas of the dying century. They will be the honored guests of The Evening World on that day.

One thousand Christmas dinners will be sent to 1,000 homes by The Evening World, with the hearty wish that the recipients may long remember the feast with pleasure and that it may bring them luck and happiness for the new century.

The object of these 1,000 Christmas dinners is to bring Yuletide cheer and gladness into homes whose occupants are struggling under temporary financial burdens which might not otherwise justify them in celebrating the great Feast Day of the Universe in fitting fashion.

There are many deserving, hard-working families whose every effort and whose every dollar just now is needed to purchase the bare necessities of life. To such families Christmas is a day of gloom and despair, and it is the mission of The Evening World to bring cheer to their hearts.

To permit them to celebrate it as such The Evening World gives three thousand dinners.

To the most worthy and deserving families in the city these dinners will go; families recommended by such societies and associations as are fully acquainted with their needs, desires and necessities.

The Evening World has always done its utmost to bring Christmas joy into darkened homes and to act as Santa Claus for those poor but dear old souls who might otherwise pass by.

With this end in view, The Evening World has already ordered 1,000 dinners and will pay for that number.

Still there are more than 1,000 dinners that depend upon you who read this and upon your friends.

If you say, "Let there be more," your generous wish shall be gratified. All that is necessary is for you to back up the desire with an equally generous subscription.

Understand that The Evening World has already arranged for the first 1,000 dinners. Anything you and others care to contribute will simply go to buy more dinners and to bring happiness into other homes besides the original thousand.

There will be 1,000 good dinners any day. Every year since it came into existence, The Evening World has demonstrated for itself the privilege of making Christmas a day of perfect happiness for hosts of people, and it is following out the same idea this year.

And this new variation of the same old story has fair to prove a grand success. In doing so, the dinner will be put up in a basket. Each basket will contain the following:

Soup; two chickens, weighing about six pounds; sweet potatoes, sweet corn, bread, a plum pudding, and can- dies, nuts and raisins, coffee, and candy.

What more delightful Christmas dinner can any one ask? Not only the new year's feast, but the privilege of making Christmas a day of perfect happiness for hosts of people, and it is following out the same idea this year.

THE EVENING WORLD ORDERS THE XMAS DINNERS.

THE WORLD, Evening Edition, Dec. 15, 1900.

The Siegel Cooper Co., New York City:

Gentlemen—Please put up for The Evening World and have ready for delivery on the morning of Dec. 24, one thousand (1,000) Christmas Dinners as per items agreed upon with our representative; each dinner to be in a basket that can be easily handled. Very truly yours, THE EVENING WORLD.

LABOR NEWS.

Now Mrs. Nellie B. Hitt,
Aged Twenty, Wants
Alimony.

As a defense to his child wife's application for alimony and counsel fees, pending her suit for divorce, aged William A. Hitt, of Brooklyn, advanced today the peculiar plea that the union was the result of a frolic, and that Cupid wasn't in it.

The case came up before Judge Madison in Special Term of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn. Attorney William Van Wyck, counsel for the young wife, presented her application for alimony and counsel fees and also for divorce.

Mr. Hitt, twenty-two years old, and Nellie B. Hitt, twenty years old, were married in May last, but that they had never lived together. Mrs. Hitt was now and had been since the wedding, deep in love with her mother, Mrs. Madison, of 10th Avenue, Brooklyn.

Mr. Hitt had been in the habit of calling on Mrs. Madison for an excellent humor.

"May I see her," he called, and after he had taken a few drinks for an excellent humor.

Mrs. Hitt, according to his statement, said to him: "Bill, why don't you and Nellie get married? It would be a good joke."

"My friend thought so, too, at the time, and he and the girl were married that evening at the Church of the Holy Name."

Judge Madison took the papers and reserved his decision.

BOSTON MAN'S MISHAP.

Greely was Picked up on 42nd Street with Fractured Skull.

John Greely, aged thirty-eight, who was identified by papers on his person as living at 101 Harrison Avenue, Boston, was found half-conscious on the sidewalk at Grand Street, and the body was found today.

He was taken to the Edgewise street station and from there sent to City Hospital. His skull, it is believed, has been fractured.

Whether he fell down the stairs or was struck by some person not known, the police are investigating.

WHOSE HOMING PIGEON?

Exhausted Bird Marked "Y 260" Fell in Brooklyn Street.

An exhausted carrier pigeon fell yesterday into the street in front of 101 Harrison Avenue, Brooklyn. It was picked up by George W. Hadley, an employee at that address, and held in his hand. Mr. Hadley noticed that the bird was marked "Y 260." It was evidently a fabled bird.
